What does the course cover?

Each member of staff will be provided with high-quality and engaging support materials that provide the knowledge and understanding required to undertake the end of unit assessments. The course covers:

how equality and diversity is monitored in the workplace

how the rights of individuals are protected in the workplace the difference characteristics that make us who we are develop an understanding of the potential inequalities which can occur within a community the effects of stereotyping

how equality and diversity is monitored in the workplace

the effects of labelling what prejudice and discrimination leads to the support services and groups which exist to ensure equality and diversity is maintained

How is it delivered?

The course is usually delivered over a period of 12 weeks. Alongside the learning materials you will have the support of a knowledgeable assessor/tutor who will give you support, advice and guidance on the course content as well as providing robust feedback on the work you complete. Successful completion of this course ensures that the learner has fully understood these important principles. This evidence can support some of the key training needs within the sector.

What is the cost?

Due to the availability of government funding, this qualification is usually available at no cost. Funded places are limited so please book early to secure your place. Funding is subject to learners meeting set eligibility criteria; this will be provided prior to the start of any course. Please note that a fee of £100 is payable if learners decide to withdraw from the course and do not complete their assessments. Learners must want to independently enrol onto the course.
